H65 2010u OCLC Number: (OCOLOC)694509552 Subject: Computer networks -- Security measures -- Government policy -- United States. Excerpt: . . . 13 Taskforce, which would allow the Executive Branch sufficient flexibility to work within the laws framework to handle new and emerging threats. These changes included in the legislation should improve security while decreasing the cost of FISMA compliance across the government. FEDERAL PROCUREMENT Section 253 of the bill requires the DHS Secretary, in collaboration with other federal agencies and the private sector, to develop, update, and implement a supply chain risk management strategy to ensure the security of the communications and information technology products and services purchased by the federal government. It then directs the Federal Acquisition Regulatory Council ( FAR Council ) to use its existing authority over federal government procurements to implement the strategy, in much the same way as efforts already under way at the Department of Defense and DHS as part of Initiative 11 of the Comprehensive National Cybersecurity Initiative ( CNCI ). Homeland Security Presidential Directive-23 explained the need for supply chain risk management for government information technology procurements: Globalization of the commercial information and communications technology marketplace provides increased opportunities for those intent on harming the United States by penetrating the supply chain to gain unauthorized access to data, alter data, or interrupt communications. Risks stemming from both the domestic and globalized supply chain must be managed in a strategic and comprehensive way over the entire lifecycle of products, systems and services. Managing this risk will require a greater awareness of the threats, vulnerabilities, and consequences associated with acquisition decisions; the development and employment...
