Selecting the unit of knowledge to be taught, the teacher's self-preparation to prevent it, the preparation of the class-mind to receive the lesson, the presentation of the lesson, the direction of pupils study, the test of their progress to the application of the lesson, -- all these are acts requiring abundant knowledge of subject matter, vast industry, great skill and untiring patience. It is no little matter--the training of a school teacher. We sometimes hear the expression a. good teacher but a poor disciplinarian. There is no such thing. Order is heaven's first law. We cannot have a good school without good order and discipline. Let us see to it, then, that our order and discipline are right. The order in a school room is good when each student is...
