IRA is a son's tribute to a great mother. IRA highlights women on the front-line who plays the role of a mother and a father, and does whatever she needs to on a daily basis, to pay the rent and provide food including clothing for her children. The book highlights the way women were treated in the 13th and 17th century compared to today. The book highlights the first woman who became a prime minister in 1960, and the contribution she made that changed history forever. IRA the book, highlights the struggle of American women to receive equal pay and benefits for the same work done as men. The book emphasized that America is on the brink of change and history in the making, as the presumptive soon to be nominated presidential candidate Hillary Diane Rodham Clinton, will become madam president and leader of the free world. The book empowers women, praise mothers, and thank them with a poem from the bottom of a son's heart, who's mother Mrs. Genita Estriana Powell, IRA, has left an honorable and lasting legacy through her children. IRA speaks for women who dare to dream; whom have fallen, to get up dust themselves off, and keep fighting independently for their child or children. IRA puts women on the alert, to be aware of men, who will say anything to rob or swindle them, of every dime they possesses. It will further devastate the children's well-being, and leads to further calamities and dilemma. IRA teaches women to share valuable information with their eldest child or the one who understands the most. It teaches them as women,...
